

ABSTRACT

At least one light distribution device is provided in the spacing between adjacent light sources to allow light
5 diffused from both sides of the light sources to be properly refracted and reflect so as to more evenly diffuse light toward a diffuser plate and thereby, eliminate the dark bands between adjacent light sources for effectively solving the bright bands and dark bands
10 problem observed in prior art LCD modules.